A B2B Marketplace Where Brands Meet Influencers

Reelationships

Table of contents

3 Initial Hypothesis

4 User Research & Voila!

6 The Validated Problem

7 MVP Vision

8 User Journeys

9 Feature Prioritization

10 The Demo!

Brought to you by \\Amara Venkata Sai Srujan
\\Anuraag Dash
\\Jasjeev Singh Sahni
\\Karan Kulwal
\\Nayan Awasthi

The Initial Hypothesis

- Orchestrating Campaigns is risky & needs fragmented tools.
- Manual processes block efficient multi-creator campaigns.
- Creators need predictable scope & reliable payouts, which they don’t get

User Research

Understanding the preferences and needs of the players – influencers, Agencies & the brands

Brand

- Reaching out to a large number of influencers at once is tedious.
- Difficult to find trusted, vetted creators.
- Vetting creator professionalism is manual.
- Measuring campaign ROI is a "black box".

Influencer

- Creative control is constantly challenged.
- Unpredictable payments threaten financial viability.
- Feeling powerless due to agency middlemen.
- Pressured to make misleading brand claims

Agencies

- Manual workflows prevent scaling the business.
- Absorbing brand payment delays is risky.

The aha! moments

What made the clock tick.

Payment tracking is one the biggest problems.. the cycle of the payment is actually 30 to 60 days”

Sometimes it seems like, 'Can I just speak to the client?

My team is still calling up creators and be like, are you done with the script?

We don't personally go to influencers because it's a very taxing process. It’s impossible to gauge professionalism

What we know now

Problems that are real.
Problems that we're set to solve.

Manual Workflows Are Unscalable
The entire process, from discovery and vetting to execution, is manual and inefficient for brands, agencies, and creators alike

Payments Are Broken and Risky
Extreme payment delays are the industry norm, creating significant financial risk for creators & cash flow problems for intermediaries

Lack of Trust and Transparency
It is difficult for brands to vet a creator's professionalism from a profile alone

Creative & Strategic Misalignment
The process for briefing and approvals is inefficient, often ignoring creator expertise and leading to frustrating revisions & issues

Campaign ROI is a Black Box
Brands struggle to measure the true impact of their campaigns, describing attribution as a "black box"

High Barriers to Entry
The current agency-gated model is inaccessible - excluding small brands with high fees and new creators lacking experience

The MVP Vision

First, ease the search & hire of trusted creators

Second, standardize outreach for numerous influencers

Third, craft detailed campaigns for targeted planning

Reliable creator campaigns, credible business tracking

Brand Journey

New brand initiates setup

Brand lands on Platform

Brand registers with email & password

Email & Password Registration

Brand provides company, tax, & bank details

Submit Detailed Profile

Brand account is activated for use

Account Activation

Selects influencer first or campaign first mode

Choose Workflow

Brand finds and chooses influencers

Filter & Select Influencers

Brand defines campaign details and decides on creators

Create a New Campaign

Send out invites & track status

Send Invitations & monitor responses

Monitor timelines & deliverables

Track Progress of Deliverables

Campaign Analytics to track ROI

Access Analytics Dashboard

Past Reviews for Insights

View Past Brand Collabs

End of Workflow

Influencer Journey

Influencer signs up, builds profile to go live

Onboarding & Profile Creation

Influencer looks out for open campaigns & applies

Marketplace Browsing

Receive & Review Campaign Invites

Offer Evaluation

Get to work! And show it

Deliverable Execution

Dashboard Review

Track earnings, payments & past collabs

Journey Completion

End of the line post review

Feature Prioritization

Just enough rice for everyone?
Anyways here's the top 5 we're building.
Also, its flavored rice.

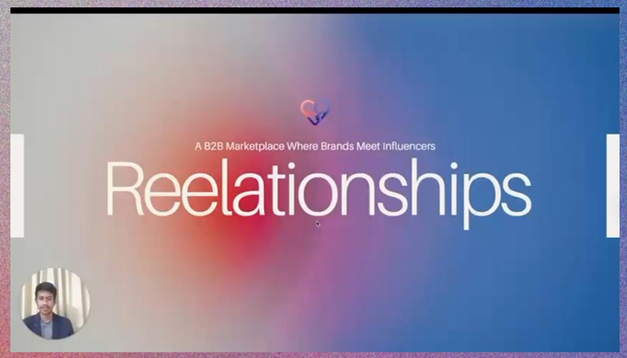

Rationale:
Logical.
In more business terms –
Weighted average between complexity & utility

1. Influencer Market View
2. Detailed Creator Profiles
3. Brand Side Home Page
4. User Account Creation
   (Actually Detailed!)
5. Campaign Creation

. . .

n. When we get to the final product!

Here’s the entirety of it.
One click away.
(Ah, friction already?!)

demo

“Show, don’t tell.”
—Anton Chekhov

Let's Step Into a Brand Manager's Shoes

Chinmoy Anthony, Brand Manager at BrightBottle

Owns creator campaigns for a consumer brand; accountable for reach, engagement, and cost control across Instagram, YouTube, and TikTok.

- Account creation: Create an account or sign in to access the workspace.
- Home Page review: Scan current campaigns and trending influencers at a glance.
- Campaign creation: Define basics, type (open/closed/hybrid), platforms, deliverables, target creator mix, dates, and budget.
- Marketplace selection: Search, filter, and shortlist influencers for potential fit.
- Influencer profile: Open a profile to review stats, packages, portfolio, and reviews before deciding.
- Influencer addition to campaign: Add influencers to campaigns and view which creators belong to which campaigns.

Product Roadmap

- Fundamental Influencer-Side Experience: Account Creation, Open Campaign Browse, and Offer Evaluation features
- General Platform Experience: Quote/Invitation Creation and Modification, and Brand-Influencer Negotiation Chat features.
- User Validation: Roll out the platform to a selected cohort of users to collect feedback on MVP features.
- Open Question (to be explored via User Research): To disintermediate agencies, or onboard them onto the platform as our third persona?

Thank you